Everything I Touch Turns To SOLD!

"I'll Let You in on My Secret"

As many of you know in 2010 my life was turned upside down when my husband was in a serious accident. Since then we have been faced with much adversity and challenges. Many people have asked me how I was able to maintain my attitude, keep my commitment to my clients, recover personally and get back to such a high level of success professionally. So I will let you in on my secret. Faith... Faith that all will be okay, Faith to help me and my husband get better and grow stronger every day, and Faith that others will be there to pick us up when we are down.

Throughout my 14 year career in real estate I have come to find my work is a gift. It requires of me the Faith and hope that I need to know all will be okay. It was there before and after the accident. It seemed that God gave me success and tremendous satisfaction in my work in helping others so that I would have the strength and Faith to deal with my personal life away from work. A lot of people put their Faith in me and my team to help them buy the home they may be in for a lifetime or sell what has been their home for a lifetime. This drive to help them has been my solid ground and a place to take care of other's needs; focus on other's success while providing for my family. Which it turns out, along with a strong Faith, is the combination that leads to satisfaction and success.

When you have the drive in your gut to keep your head above water, not to be drowned by everything and not to eliminate disempowering thoughts but rather set them aside. You will realize just how much Faith you have and how much Faith others have in you. That Faith will guide you through almost anything in life but first you must find the source of the Faith and for me that is through my work. I never blinked; I put my head down, committed myself to my family and my work and moved forward. That Faith provided me the dedication, selflessness, and optimism that make me a proven leader and a shining example of how to endure the crushing hammer of adversity and emerge triumphant.

It would be a gift to me for you to put your Faith in me and my team to help you in the selling/buying process. If you have any questions about anything real estate, please don't hesitate and give me a call.
